Company

PWI provides advanced technology products and solutions in IT security, enterprise messaging, analytics and custom software development to support the core business and product management functions of organizations across a range of vertical and horizontal industry segments. To optimize the market potential and long-term viability of our proprietary technologies, they are often implemented as integral components of our clients and partners own branded solutions.

Key Differentiators

Software development that supports core enterprise functions, such as messaging and security, and technology-focused product offerings is PWI's core competency. The combination of our advanced analytic capabilities and software development proficiency allows us to develop innovative solutions and intelligent systems that further empower application effectiveness and decision making processes.

Areas of Specialization

Enterprise Messaging

As a leader in large scale messaging service development, PWI has consistently met the rigorous standards of the world's largest value added network providers.

Analytics

Our analytic capabilities are rooted in sophisticated algorithmic modeling covering refined areas of expertise such as optimization, and pattern analysis and recognition.

Custom Development

PWI draws from its unmatched software engineering capabilities, solution domain expertise and patented technologies to generate business results, accelerate innovation and create sustainable ROI.

Key Customers

We focus on establishing long-term relationships with clients and generate the majority of our revenue from repeat business. Some of our key clients include, Lucent Technologies, Nationwide Financial Services, Staples, EasyLink Services, AT&T, Bank of America, Quest Software, Kensington Technology, Webroot Software, Delta Airlines, United Messaging, Premiere Global Services, Internet Transaction Solutions and FedEx.
